TWO BRITISH COLUMNS CLOSING CAEN TRAP

The War
Today...By DeWitt MacKenzie

Kenzie.)

JAPANESE FORCES IN CHINA have turned a double trick in their drive to Hengyang. They have half the railway from Hankow to Canton and Hongkong and have closed one and landed on the doorstep of other American air bases from which we have been harassing Japanese shipping.

Loss of the rail junction also will increase the Chinese demand for more supplies.

Thus two important fronts are linked together, although it is more than 1,300 miles from Hengyang to Myitkyna, scene of the battle for the China supply route.

To get Hengyang in mind, take Shanghai as New York, Hankow as Chicago and Hongkong as New Orleans. Hengyang then becomes St. Louis. From Hankow a railroad used to run through Hengyang to Hongkong. Chinese forces tore up the rails, but the Japanese have been rebuilding it. It will give them a complete north-south line through China which may prove invaluable for the American fleet is getting menacingly close to coastal shipping lanes, which may also come under bombing from Saipan and the Philippines.

Loss of the American air field at Hengyang and probable loss of several others nearby brings up another important problem. The Japanese can use these fields against the bigger American base at Kunming, 500 miles west of Kweilin, which is the China end of the "hump" airline as well as the Burma road, which Gen. Stilwell is trying to re-open.

The Japanese know all this, and are pressing southward toward Canton while bitterly resisting efforts to finish the Ledo road. After Myitkyna's capture it still will take several months to link up the new and old roads.

But Myitkyna becomes important at once. It's capture will permit bigger payloads from India along a lower-level, safer air route.

The Japanese have ahead of them the painful job of capturing the railroad south of Hengyang, in mountains full of Chinese fighters and with the American air force hammering at every step. But the Americans have not completed the capture of Myitkyna, either. There are a lot of Japanese there, and they bring in reinforcements overland from the south while Allied reinforcements must come by air or narrow jungle trails which are swamped now by the monsoon.

Each battleground offers the Allies only an uphill fight for big stakes. Somewhere, sometime Allied forces from the Pacific must attempt a landing in China. There would be a lot fewer casualties there if the part of China now being cut off could be kept in Allied hands.

DEWEY MAPS
CAMPAIGN TO FIT THE TIMESRepublican Presidential Candidate's Drive Is On War Tempo

CHICAGO, June 30.—Herbert Brownell, Jr., 40-year-old New York lawyer, was unanimously elected chairman of the Republican National committee today to direct the presidential campaign of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

BY JACK BELL
CHICAGO, June 30.—A campaign tailored to the course of the war took form today as Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York completed conferences with Republican party leaders and prepared to name his choice for national committee chairman.

The G. O. P. presidential nominee, whose hotel room meetings with committee members and state chairmen kept him up until the early hours of the morning, arranged to address the national committee (at 12 noon E. W. T.). He was expected to recommend the election of Herbert Brownell, Jr., the Dewey gubernatorial campaign manager in 1942. Whether Harrison E. Spangler, present chairman, would be retained in any capacity, apparently had not been determined.

Dewey did a great deal of listening and not much talking during the night as one delegation of party officials after another called upon him. But out of these conferences came some definite indications that the Republican campaign strategy will be guided in a large measure by the progress of the war.

To Watch F. D. R.
Dewey was reported to have been advised by such stump speech veterans as former Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas that there might be public reaction against the customary special train coast-to-coast tour. This would be reduced and freedom of movement increased if the war appears about to be won in Europe. It was evidence the Dewey supporters intended to gear either vote-seeking appeals somewhat to

BOY SCOUTS OPEN
ANNUAL CAMPORE

LISBON, June 30.—The 14th annual Columbian County Boy Scout camporee opened at the nearby Camp McKinley reservation today with nearly 250 district scouts participating.

Donald Poole of East Liverpool, an Eagle Scout with 22 years experience in scout training, is in charge of the swimming program and will act as lifeguard. Fred Youtz of East Liverpool will assist him.

Paul Fisher, a Pittsburgh radio announcer and a veteran scout of 15 years, will have charge of the campfire programs. Rev. Theodore Cord, Lisbon Christian church pastor, is planning a Sunday service for the boys.

As an added feature of the camporee, the East Liverpool Sea Scouts will give a demonstration of their lure using a Sea Scout ship.

TIRE INNER TUBES
MADE RATION-FREE

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The Office of Price Administration today ordered the removal from rationing of all tire inner tubes, effective tomorrow.

It also announced that a total of 3,900,000 new passenger car tires have been allocated for rationing in July and August, an increase of 500,000 tires in both months over the June quota.

Inner tube inventories now are sufficiently large to supply the needs of all motorists, OPA said in eliminating the requirement for rationing certificates. Tubes were brought under rationing in January, 1942, along with tires.

The agency also disclosed that an additional allocation of 300,000 new passenger car tires was provided by the office of the rubber director in June, bringing the total quota to 1,900,000 tires. For each month of July and August the allocation is 1,950,000 tires.

Lisbon Nears Bond Quota

LISBON, June 30.—Fifth War Loan sales soared to within $71,000 of the quota today as total sales reached $450,000.

The community is practically assured of surpassing its goal, officials say, as two industries are yet to turn in extra subscriptions estimated to boost the figure considerably.

Top Military
Heads Warn
Job Slackers

Also Declare Over-Optimism at Home Endangers War Effort

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 30.—The nation's top military commanders put war job slackers in a class with deserters and over-optimism at home, they say, is threatening to prolong the war.

In a special report to President Roosevelt, the heads of the Army, Navy and Air Forces last night deplored what they termed an over-confident state of mind on the home front and declared "any slackening in the needed production will only delay ultimate victory."

The report was signed by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff; Adm. Ernest J. King, top Navy chief; and Gen. H. H. Arnold, head of the Air Forces.

The three military chiefs visited London and the French front shortly after the Allies made their successful drive across the English channel. Their report to the President was their first word on the home-front reaction to what they termed "the recent favorable course of the fighting."

The production might of American industry and labor, they said, is virtual assurance of eventual victory, but they warned:

"This (Victory) depends, however, on a continuance of the full support now given to the fighting forces by the home front."

SAIPAN FIGHT
SLOW, TOUGHCrush Jap Resistance In South End; New Naval
Attacks Hinted(By Associated Press)
U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, June 30.—Bearded Yanks, after crushing the last organized Japanese resistance on the south half of Saipan, battled north step by step today while enemy broadcasts hinted of new American battleship attacks on Guam, Tinian and Rota.

Seven hundred miles southwest of the Marianas invasion scene, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers supported the Saipan operation by dealing the Nipponese air base of Yapti its fifth blow in a week during which more than 50 Jap planes were destroyed or damaged.

In Washington, the Navy department said more than 12,000 Japanese planes have been destroyed—better than one every two hours—by American airmen since Pearl Harbor was attacked. American losses were 2,726 planes.

On Saipan, a pocket of Japanese which had been holding out on the southeast tip since the invasion began June 14 was overwhelmed Tuesday, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced.

Six miles up the west coast, cautious Yanks probed deeper into shell-shattered Garapan, administrative center of the island, in the mountains center of the island other small gains were made.

"Our advance northward is being made against severe resistance," the communiqué said.

The Yanks underwent another night air attack, during which anti-aircraft guns shot down two raiders.

The Berlin radio last night broadcast a Tokyo dispatch saying Japanese naval planes attacked American fleet units, which included battleships, each with enemy air bases, have been raided by carrier planes and shelled by warships since Saipan was invaded.

The Tokyo dispatch was not confirmed by official reports but the Thursday communiqué listed a knockout blow to the north of Saipan against Pagan Island. Returning fliers reported the island's air base had been bombed out.

HULL BREAKS
U. S.-FINLAND
RELATIONSHIPFinns' Close Alliance With Germany Blamed For American Action(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 30.—The United States today broke relations with Finland because of the new close alliance between the government of that nation and Nazi Germany.

The action was announced with the release of a note from Secretary of State Hull to Alexander Thesleff, charge d'affaires of the Finnish legation here.

The break marks the end of many efforts over a period of more than two years by the United States government to make peace between Finland and Russia.

Hull's note reflected the long and persistent attitude of friendship on the part of the United States toward Finland, saying "notwithstanding the esteem in which the American people have held the people of Finland, further relations between the government of the United States and the government of Finland are now impossible."

The note, which was delivered to Thesleff by George T. Summerlin, special assistant to Secretary of State Hull, also emphasized that the military operations of Finland "have a direct bearing on the success of the Allied effort" to defeat Germany.

The note opened with a quotation of the announcement made by the Finnish government last Tuesday in which it was stated that German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop had been in Helsinki and had given assurance of full military aid to Finland and that complete agreement had been reached between the Finnish government and the German government.

"The Finnish government," said Hull's note, "has thus formally admitted to the world that it has now entered a hard and fast military partnership with Nazi Germany."

"This action was taken without recourse to the established democratic procedure of Finland and responsibility for the consequences must rest solely on the Finnish government."

GERMAN 7TH ARMY
COMMANDER KILLED

Gen. Dollmann, Artillery Expert, Is Sixth To Die Since Invasion

LONDON, June 30.—Col. Gen. Friedrich Dollmann, commander of the German Seventh army and defender of the middle section of the "Atlantic Wall," has been killed in action in France, the Berlin radio announced today.

He was the highest ranking general of eight thus far killed or captured in the fighting in Normandy. Dollmann, 62, may have been killed by an RAF rocket and bomb attack on a German corps headquarters Tuesday.

Dollmann was reputed to be one of Germany's greatest artillery specialists.

He was known as a high powered, craft leader who gained fame early in this war in the first battle for France.

Other German generals killed in France since D-day June 6 are Lt. Gen. Helmuth, Maj. Gen. Witt, Artillery Gen. Marcks, Maj. Gen. Kallay and Maj. Gen. Stegman.

The commander of the Cherbourg garrison, Lt. Gen. Schlieben, and Maj. Gen. Stettler were captured by American troops along with Rear Admiral Henneke.

Only 11 Miles
Separates Two
Flanking Units(By Associated Press)
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, June 30.—Advance elements of two British columns driving around Caen in opposite directions were within 11 miles of completely encircling the inland French port today as the Germans threw large armored forces against the Odon river bridgehead in unsuccessful flank attacks.

From newly captured Marcelet, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops struck due east toward Caen in a thrust that menaced one of the city's main airfields. At last reports allied troops were only half a mile from this field.

Thus far the Allies have taken only one important airfield in the bridgehead—Mauerpertus near Cherbourg.

In the American sector to the west, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's troops made a series of small attacks southward toward the important road junction of St. Lo in an effort to straighten their lines. The doughboys also were beating down dwindling resistance on the Cap De La Hague, at the northwestern tip of the Cherbourg peninsula.

The Supreme command announced that Commodore William Sullivan, one of the foremost salvage experts in the American Navy, has been put to work to bring Cherbourg's docking facilities back into operation. He worked at Pearl Harbor, cleared Casablanca and Oran harbors and was one of the directors of the Naples operation.

In the drive to encircle Caen, forward British elements fought in the Esquay sector, southwest of the city, and in the Troarn area to the east.

The Navy announced the British assault around Esquay, on the still-widening bridgehead, across the Odon river some five miles southwest of Caen, was supported by the big guns of the British battleship Rodney, lying off the Allied beaches to the north. The Rodney's guns have a range of 33,000 yards (nearly 19 miles).

Nazi Counter-attacks Fail
Marshal Erwin Rommel, who now is reported rushing strategic reserves to Normandy from both Germany and France, tried to cut off the British Odon salient with one heavy and three smaller counterattacks, but all were broken up.

Little fighting was reported directly north of Caen where forward elements stand about two miles from the city's outskirts, but to the northeast British raiders attacked Breville, a mile east of the Orne river and three miles south of its mouth.

(The Paris radio declared in a broadcast early today that British and Canadian troops had landed on the east bank of the Orne estuary and had captured the port of Caenbourg, four miles beyond, but there was no Allied report of operations that far to the eastward.)

A British staff officer told Associated Press War Correspondent Roger D. Greene last night that the Germans were throwing all available armor into a flank attack against the British surge across the Odon.

The Germans are rushing major reinforcements up from the south, Greene went on, adding:

"German armor was reflected sharply by the fact that hitherto the enemy has only moved vehicles forward under cover of darkness because of Allied domination of the skies, whereas today (Thursday), for the first time, Nazi transport was on the move in broad daylight."

More than 100 of these enemy vehicles were shot up by Allied warplanes during the day.

British Positions Secure
Greene said both flanks of the British corridor across the Orne "now are stoutly secure, but the Germans are showing their teeth from Evrecy to Bougy."

All forts along the Cherbourg breakwater now are in Allied hands. The last gave up when Marauder bombers swooped in at less than 600 feet and cloaked it with high explosives. The Germans began wav-

CLEARED FOR ACTION

The Republican party has cleared its decks for action. Whatever may be the outcome of the election, the campaign will have brought the party to its finest fighting trim in a political generation.

Gov. Dewey's sweeping nomination for the presidency is symbolic of the party's complete accord. It has enlisted his youth and his fresh approach to public problems to hold out the hope of a revived political spirit to all voters.

As former President Hoover told the convention, the party now passes into the hands of young and vigorous men. Something like that almost happened in Philadelphia four years ago, but then the transfer was awkward. Wendell Willkie's nomination to the presidency did not fuse party unity.

The passage of four years—four momentous years—sharpened the political focus. The ultimate issue lying between the political philosophy of President Roosevelt's administration and the opposition is clearer today. It will be even clearer by next November.

For the first time in many years a political party will go into a campaign with a vice presidential candidate who has vastly more than sectional and minority influence. It was plain at the convention that Gov. Bricker's bid for the presidential nomination was rejected only because of circumstances which made Gov. Dewey appear to be the more logical choice. Gov. Bricker is as well qualified for the leadership of the ticket as Gov. Dewey in the opinion of many members of the party. His willingness to step aside for the sake of the party's welfare has increased his already great stature. Here is no Henry W. Wallace, with nothing but the strength imparted by association, but a man who holds strength of his own making in his own right.

Gov. Bricker will step directly from the job he has been doing as the Republican party's ablest spokesman into his new role of co-bearer of the Republican standard. Gov. Dewey, who comes to the campaign fresh, demonstrated Wednesday night in his acceptance speech the power he will bring to the task of presenting the issues of 1944.

The highest function of a party convention is the rededication of strength for the preservation of principles. The convention in Chicago has performed that function. The convention has stimulated the opposition to the incumbent administration. It has given a fresh lease on life to the two-party system. It has strengthened the determination of its members to fight for their convictions and has attracted the attention of the electorate at large. The party now must stand or fall on what it has done. Its chances of victory are brighter at this point than they have been for 16 years.

PEACE IS NOT UNILATERAL

Public opinion in the United States has gone too far down the penitent road of self-recrimination in the name of peace. If this country could get rid of the idea that it bore the lion's share of blame for the present war and must bear the lion's share for the next one, if the causes of war are not eradicated and prevented from recurring, it would come closer to the realistic understanding it professes to be seeking.

Peace is not unilateral. It takes two parties to make a war, and it takes at least two parties to preserve peace. The United States is obligated to do whatever it can to preserve peace, and that will be a very great deal. But unless the good faith which it brings to the task is matched by the good faith of its neighbor nations, a long period of peace will be only an empty hope.

The future cannot be influenced half as much by written pledges on foreign policy which commit this government to cooperation in all means to preserve peace as by the day-to-day actions which will decide what the terms of cooperation must be. The United States is not going to cooperate with anyone in perpetrating an injustice for the preservation of peace; it can be bought at too high a price to be worth the having.

It should be made perfectly plain to other governments in the course of the political campaign of 1944—and it will be—that the opposition party, at least, is not prepared to give a blanket endorsement to the decisions of other government in the name of wholehearted cooperation for the preservation of peace. Americans want no more appeasement by whatever name it may be called.

TWO-TERM PROPOSAL

Repetition in the 1944 platform of its 1940 declaration for a two-term limit on presidential tenure means the Republican party would be obligated, if it wins the election, to work for a constitutional amendment to that effect.

In the event the amendment were not forthcoming, however, the party still would have a great opportunity to restore the tradition of two terms by adhering to it, if that opportunity presented itself. This is an even more important possibility than the possibility of an amendment. It was refusal to scorn the tradition through the years which made it important.

Tradition in such a case can be stronger than law, because respect for tradition connotes respect for principle, whereas respect for law may connote nothing higher than fear of the consequences of a violation. A two-term limit by constitutional amendment would be a weak substitute for a two-term limit by tradition. The tradition has been broken, but it can be restored.

To be sure, there always would be the temptation to disregard it, especially since Mr. Roosevelt's success. But in the long run, it would be far better to risk an occasional lapse than to set up a new law which, if it were broken, could be broken only at the expense of the Constitution, after the fashion of those countries which expect their constitutions to take the rap whenever they conflict with political ambitions.

For Saturday, July 1

CONTINUATION of the concentrated efforts to reach high goals and to place the future and its fortunes upon an enduring and dependable basis, may bring many avenues of assistance of concrete and definite cooperation from those in influential positions. However, there is need to take particular care not to run counter to the codes or to observe public rules and regulations. Clever, judicious change, new arrangements sustained by keen judgment and common sense may secure unexpected benefit. The personal or romantic affairs may have surprises.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should marshal the forces for a sustained and enduring stabilization of the future and its comforts. There may be signs of reaching desired goals by friendly support of those in power and influence, although adherence to rules and regulations of a public nature should be strict. An alert grasp of openings, with ingenuity and out of the ordinary ways and means for handling important productions, might develop surprising benefits, with promotion or favors. Use sound judgment and good sense and not impulse emotions.

A child born on this day may have high ambitions, with much ingenuity and cleverness to take advantage of lucrative conditions for attaining its objective.

LABOR AND STEEL PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, June 30.—A labor shortage has forced the shutdown of more than 30 open hearth furnaces and production now is but 95.7 per cent of the steel industry's rated capacity compared to 99 per cent the middle of last month, the War Production board reported yesterday.

Output may even fall short of allotments made for war and essential civilian purposes for July, August and September, Charles E. Wilson executive vice chairman of the WPB, declared.

He estimated the shutdowns are costing the war effort 200,000 tons of ingot steel a month, while an increase in the length of time required for repair of furnaces is causing a loss of an additional several hundred thousand tons.

Wilson announced that a meeting of the Iron and Steel Industry Advisory committee has been called for July 7 to seek solutions to the manpower problem. A steel labor advisory committee will meet a few days later.

The WPB steel division estimated that the industry had a deficit of 50,000 workers. From a labor force of 600,000 approximately 180,000 have been inducted into the armed forces and the 50,000 shortage remains after all possible replacements have been made, the work week lengthened and some 50,000 women have been hired.

The Body's Ills Are Also the Soul's

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TWO HUNDRED years ago there was practically nothing but specialism among the practitioners of the healing art. A man was trained to be a barber surgeon, belonged to the guild of the barber surgeons and practiced

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

nothing else but surgery. The apothecary was trained in the same way, never learned any surgery and corresponded to the internist or general practitioner of our day.

Obstetrics was in the hands of the midwives. Then, as the science of anatomy and microscopy and physiology and knowledge of bacteria grew, it was seen that those fundamental principles were necessary for all practitioners to know and we had an era when while there were a few specialists, most doctors practiced in all fields.

New Type Specialist

Then knowledge widened still further and the technical procedures in such fields as the eye and surgery became so complicated that a man had to devote his whole life to the acquisition of the definite skills and the new age of specialism developed.

We are living in that era and we will probably never get away from the specialist again, but of late a new conception has come over every doctor's thought which leads us back once more to the general practitioner. This is the conception of the whole man. It has been named psycho-somatic medicine—from psyche—soul, and soma—body.

Basically it calls attention to the age old idea that when a man is sick, when he has a fever, not only his body is sick, but also his soul. And when you give a man a drug to treat his sickness the drug affects not only his body but also his soul.

The more complicated a man's life situation is, the more factors enter into the picture. Economic factors, social factors and psychological factors. Sometimes a patient is never cured until he changes his job or the town where he lives, or, familiar enough in these days of divorce, changes his wife.

Even the industrial surgeons have found that they cannot practice full preventive medicine unless they find out about what kind of man they are dealing with.

For instance, I have a study before me made by Dr. Flanders Dunbar, New York, on the detection of workers who are prone to have accidents in an industrial plant.

Now certainly an accident is a matter of medical or surgical interest. And, of course, a man is prone to have accidents if he is too young or too weak, or partially deaf or blind. But eliminating all such physical considerations there is a kind of personality who is accident-prone and Dr. Dunbar has made a list of twelve characteristics that, according to his experience, distinguish the accident-prone worker.

1. First he enjoys better that average health with no tendency to colds, indigestion, dietary fads, etc. That looks strange at first, but it probably means that the fellow who is perfectly sure he is in the best of health crashes alone and exposes himself to trouble where the more sickly fellow is timid about taking chances.

2. Impulsiveness of action under stress.

Remember... the effectiveness of your doctor's prescription relies upon three fundamentals: Expert compounding—full strength—fresh materials—and a rigid adherence to the use of ingredients specified. That is why we urge you to bring your prescription to the Rexall Drug Store... where extra attention is given to these three priceless ingredients.

3. Failure to finish school.
4. Spontaneous and casual in social relations.
5. Frequently changes jobs.
6. Apparently gets along all right with members of the opposite sex, but irresponsible toward husband or wife.
7. Interest in machinery.
8. No interest in philosophy beyond a firm belief in fate.
9. Makes up mind quickly.
10. Alcohol and tobacco used to let off steam, not for social purposes.
11. Frequent conflicts with authority.

Flashes Of Life

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — Miss Neal McKenry, assistant secretary of an educational society, meets many professors. If absent-mindedness is catching, Miss McKenry said she is exhibit A, for she started to the society's convention wearing one black shoe and one blue.

MANSFIELD — A local woman applied at the Office of Price Administration for a bicycle so her child could get to school on time.

"Why," the OPA official asked, "are you applying now when school isn't scheduled to open for another three months?" Quickly the woman replied, "I'll take him three months to learn to ride."

CANTON — Maj. Samuel Davis, special services officer with Ohio's 37th division on Bougainville, during a visit here reported that at one time the boys had 150 volleyball teams, 67 softball teams, 34 basketball teams and four boxing "stables."

WHARTON — Wilma Mae Benjamin, who is only 13 years old, has 32 nieces and nephews.

MANSFIELD — Like the movie theater, a local church had a double feature. Rosemary Berkka, probate court stenographer, attended the wedding of a friend, went out to congratulate the newlyweds at their reception in the church parlor, left by a side door and came in the front door again to see a second friend married.

3 Vegetable Items To Require Points

The ration point holiday on purchases of canned tomatoes, peas and asparagus comes to an end at midnight tomorrow, foreshadowing the return of other vegetables to the ration list.

Announcing processed food point values for the period from net Sunday through July 29, the Office of Price Administration said today it had "clearly foreseen" and predicted that ration-free vegetables would be reassigned point values when the 1943 pack had been moved off store shelves.

Peas and tomatoes go back on the ration chart at five points for popular sized cans, while asparagus will require 10 points.

OPA estimates the civilian supply of canned vegetables will be smaller by 15 to 20 per cent in the new pack year, which begins tomorrow.

The only other changes on the processed food's chart are a one-point hike, from four to five, for a 45-ounce container of vegetable juice combinations, a three-point cut for tomato sauce and a one-point reduction for spaghetti sauce.

Pepper, Cucumber and Melon Prices Are Fixed

Retail sales of sweet peppers, hothouse cucumbers and a wide variety of melons were brought under price control for the first time by the Office of Price Administration today.

It said the new regulation, effective July 5, would bring sharp reductions in prevailing prices for melons and sweet peppers, and a slight cut in cucumber prices. The order covers all kinds of melons except watermelons, which already are under price control at retail.

Specific prices will be set by OPA district offices and will vary from community to community.

War Created Word Arsenal

AP Features

World war II has given the world a host of new words, coined in part by the needs of new mechanized warfare and the rich, racy imagery of slang.

Blitzkrieg and blitz became almost overworked terms for lightning, mobile war. Associated with them were panzer, piners, lebensraum and cratz—adopted straight from the German. Sitzkrieg was coined by the British during the early stalemate stage of the Maginot line.

Dunkerge, originally a geographic name, came to mean a sea-borne evacuation carried out against tremendous odds. Quizzing, one of the strongest epithets to come out of the war, meant turncoat.

New branches of service created terms like paratrooper, WACS, WAVES, SPARS and the British WASP and WRENS. New weapons put the comic strips to shame with rocket ships and guns, flying wing, jet-propelled planes and the LCP's and LCT's for landing craft, infantry, personnel and tanks.

Slang pinned such apt tags as bazooka on the rocket gun, flak and ack-ack on anti-aircraft fire, eager beaver on neophyte birdmen, grenline and scabline on the scientific ecumen encountered in the stratosphere and open sea, as well as the self-explanatory pin-up girl, GI Joe and Sad Sack.

To sweat it out meant to wait helplessly, nervously and anxiously for something over which one had no control. To ditch was another airman's term for bailing out from a disabled plane over water. To buzz in pilot's lingo was to fly low and fast over an airfield, barracks or city. Fliers returning from a successful raid frequently buzzed their home field as a salute to victory.

The American okay drew a new variation in Roger, a response meaning "all right or yes, sir." Over plane radios to make certain that all messages were clear, the alphabet was broken down into A for Arthur, B for Bertie, C for Charlie and R became right for Roger.

Nazi pilots who pressed home the attack with great daring and skill were referred to as Abbeville Kids because at one time the pick of the Luftwaffe's fighters were stationed near Abbeville to harass Allied bombers enroute to Berlin.

When a man had too much to drink, fliers said he was on instruments (flying blind).

German civilians with an assist from Allied bombers coined a term zittermokka (jitter coffee) for the emergency brew given inhabitants of heavily bombed cities. Laterally zitter meant tremble and mokka was strong black coffee.

Australia is made up of six states.

PIN-WORMS GO! New Treatment Gets Real Results

Anyone who has ever had Pin-Worms knows how tormenting and embarrassing this affliction can be, and how hard it is to eliminate the ugly crawling creatures once they get a foothold inside the body. Millions of people—rich and poor, children and grown-ups—have suffered in silence with the miseries of Pin-Worms, and doctors have tried for years to find a way to deal with this pest. Old-fashioned worm "syrops" usually don't work on Pin-Worms. Today, thanks to an important scientific discovery (a remarkable drug known as gentian violet), a new and highly effective treatment has been hailed by doctors. This drug is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm tablets developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicine. P-W makes it easy to deal with Pin-Worms. The small, convenient P-W tablets act in a special way to destroy the creatures. Don't take chances with Pin-Worms! Just ask your druggist for P-W, and be sure to follow the directions. P-W means Pin-Worm relief!

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I can't think of anything else you'll need for your Victory garden, Judge...you've got pretty nearly everything."

"I think so, too, John. Ever get your asparagus patch going?"

"I gave that up last year, Judge. Tried it six years in a row with no luck. Just haven't got the right soil, I guess?"

"Well, I think you're wise, John...no use keeping on trying things you know won't work. Just like prohibition. State-wide prohibition has been tried in this country seventy-two times in the last ninety years. It has been adopted forty-seven times in the past thirty-three years and discarded everywhere except in three states. Same thing was tried in eight provinces in Canada and in Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia but it was an admitted failure and universally abandoned.

"The reason is prohibition does not prohibit. All you get is bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor, plus no end of crime and corruption."

"Vest Pocket Navy" Finds Lot to Learn At U. S. Training Center In California

By BEN H. COOK
United Press Correspondent
ABOARD A SUBMARINE CHASER OFF SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Cal.—Almost simultaneously came a muffled explosion, a jar that bounced the ship sharply, and a most unnatural-looking glassy-smoothness on the ocean surface just astern of this cocky little craft that had been so audacious as to drop several 300-pound barrels of TNT into the water.

An instant later the boat shuddered again and gallons of water and mud billowed into the air. We were feeling and seeing the effects of a depth-charge "pattern" our little, 173-foot PC boat had dropped as the climax to a day's maneuvers by the "vest-pocket fleet" of the Navy's small craft training center at Roosevelt base, on Terminal Island, where crews are trained for every kind of small boat except landing vessels.

Play New Roles
In the "vest-pocket fleet" were submarine chasers, mine sweepers and small convoy-escort craft that seem to have forgotten what they were built for and now play key roles in United Nations landing operations all over the globe.

It's in this Small Craft Training fleet that men who a few weeks before studied high school algebra and tinkered with hopped-up japs learn to fire anti-aircraft guns from the deck of a tossing ship and do the hundreds of other things needed to run even a small warship.

As our executive officer, a junior grade lieutenant who not long ago was a Harvard university law student and who is the only officer remaining from the original crew, explained it.

"After the sailor's boat training and as soon as he learns a little about ship-operation in eight weeks of shore-station classes, he is assigned to a crew and sent to us for training."

"Then just as we get him whipped into shape where we could use him, he and the rest of his crew go off to their own ship."

One such crew was on our maneuver cruise, working beside the five officers and 62 men of our ship's permanent crew. The trainees, near the end of their 10-day shipboard instruction, were due to leave soon to pick up their own brand-new PC vessel.

Mrs. Elmer Bartges Wednesday evening.

And they have a lot to learn in 10 days, for these little submarine chasers—designed for convoy escort—are highly weapons, which they have proved by doubling in jobs they were not built for, as fast hit-and-run gunboats or auxiliary landing vessels.

Wide Cruising Radius
They mount a three-inch cannon, and numerous anti-aircraft guns.

They carry depth charges that they can drop from the stern or shoot off to either side.

They have sleeping quarters, messhalls and galleys for officers and men, all of whom live on board.

They can carry provisions for weeks of cruising without touching port, and if they've a mind to they could travel from here to the Hawaiian Islands (and then some) without refueling.

Their two powerful motors can send the ship bouncing through the water around 18 knots.

They have submarine detection equipment, radio communication, navigation facilities and practically everything else that a big cruiser or battleship can claim—but less than 70 men to do the jobs that 2,000 men do on the larger ships.

Only complaint of permanent crew members, about half of whom had been on this ship since it was commissioned a year ago, was that they would rather be out doing things themselves than training others.

There's Big Difference In Atlantic, Pacific Convoys

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN

ABOARD A CONVOY TO SAIPAN—The European war outlasts this Pacific one in numbers, in being fought in places you've heard about before, in having more soldiers from your home town in it. But when it comes to convoys, the two wars can't be compared.

Out here they are bigger, longer, duller and much, much closer to the hubs of hell in temperature. If anybody, from admirals down, actually enjoy one of them, he's ready for hospital time in the States.

Most of the men on this ship, for example, have been aboard for many days now, and we're not at Saipan yet. At first reading, that may not sound too bad—a cruise, with nothing much to do, among story book islands under a bright blue sky.

But these men are living in the holds, i. e., on iron cots strung from the overheads, four deep, with a passage about two feet wide between the rows. A cot is a piece of canvas strung from an iron frame with a depression in the centers as a memento to the fat man who had it last trip. The hold has a ventilation system of sorts, but something always happens. If some bright lad doesn't hang his sweaty shirt over the outlet, somebody above decks invariably clogs the inlet with his laundry or his own posterior.

Water a Scarcity
Also, one of the sewage lines sprang a leak a day or so ago. It's repaired now.

Bathing aboard Pacific transports follow the pattern of transports everywhere but goes on longer. That is, there never is enough water. Some ships run water to showers and wash bowls for half an hour, twice a day. With luck and pushing a man can shave about every other day.

This ship has no limit on water hours (which makes it unique) but solves its limitation problem with special shower heads containing only a few very small holes. If the bathers soaps so heavily that he can't get it off with the resultant thin spray, why that's too bad.

As you can see, people in the tropics think about water a lot.

Transport rules vary according to the ideas of skippers. All of them black out their decks at night, but one blacks out completely, above and below. No lights burn anywhere aboard except dim red bulbs, so no one reads, plays cards or writes letters after dusk. Dull, that's what.

At one time, sun bathing was commonly prohibited, but experience has changed this rule. Troop commanders discovered men going ashore into battle had more resistance to heat prostration and sunburn if they were tanned to start with. So now officers and men sun themselves on transport decks religiously—and on order.

Laundry Service Poor
Laundry, like everything else, takes on a different importance on this trip than on one of a few days as in the European theater. Generally speaking, ship laundries can do nothing for passenger troops, little for their own people. So tablecloths in wardrooms go dirty, sheets get gray and the soldier or marine below decks does what he can for himself. Traditionally, sailors drop a bucket overside for salt water, haul it up, scrub dunnage on the deck. Marines frown on so much work, simply tie their clothes tightly to a long line, toss it overside, and let the clothes dangle in the bow waves of the ship, bouncing merrily up and down. The marines claim they get their clothes cleaner with less effort—if they don't lose them.

Oddly enough, enlisted men generally eat as well or better than ship and passenger officers. The reason is that the enlisted men's mess is reduced to essentials—men stand in line with trays, take their food cafeteria style and carry it off somewhere to eat it while it is still hot. But transport officers—perhaps resenting still that nameless passenger who once referred to transports as "the slums of the navy"—try to maintain the old traditions of wardroom service. This gets a little tough when neither tablecloths nor the mess boys' jackets can be laundered, the water faucets don't work and the wardroom built to seat 70 has to feed three times that many.

Only two-fifths of Iceland is habitable.

Restaurant Prices To Come Under OPA Freeze Order Soon

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 30.—Most of America's public eating places will be placed under the Office of Price Administration's "freeze" on food prices a month hence.

OPA's regulations already are in effect in many areas. The agency announced last night that it planned to extend the program to virtually all the nation's eating and drinking spots.

This means restaurants and drink spots must hold their prices at the levels charged in the week of April 4-10, 1943.

The ruling on coffee was one of the principal changes ordered on a country-wide basis as freeze provisions were extended for the first time to two southern Ohio districts, including Cincinnati.

Cincinnati District OPA Director John E. Robinson said he had received no official notification of the freeze order, but that he had been expecting it and had planned to institute a freeze in southwestern Ohio on his own authority when he learned of the imminence of the order from Washington.

A program of "voluntary compliance" had broken down, Robinson said, adding that the smaller restaurants gave more trouble than the large, well-known establishments.

The ruling on coffee makes the price nation-wide, and restaurants must serve both cream and sugar with the beverage for a five-cent price.

The OPA also ordered that April 1943, base ceiling prices must be posted by all eating and drinking establishments for 40 basic menu items served and that no restaurant could charge higher prices than those of the base price because of an increase in quantity or an improvement in quality.

Explaining this ruling, OPA said the "substitution of ingredients in any food item or beverage does not make it a new item and permit a higher price."

The National Restaurant Industry Advisory committee had "concurred in the view that it would be undesirable to permit these practices because of inflationary repercussions," the OPA added.

Tooth Extraction Pain Depends On Condition

(By United Press) CHICAGO—That aching tooth is a pain no one wants to feel. But do you still have a pain where the tooth was?

Well, if you do, it's probably a sign that you are undernourished, physically below par.

At least, that is the opinion of Vernon H. Egan, D.D.S., of Grand Rapids, Mich., in an article in the current issue of the Journal of Oral Surgery, published by the American Dental Association.

Postoperative pain, chief concern of both patient and dentist in dental extractions—now that extractions are made painlessly—results in many instances because the patient is undernourished, Dr. Egan states.

He furthermore explains that the majority of patients for extraction are taken literally "off the street." They come in because they have a toothache or because, for some reason or other, and possibly without the advice of a physician, they have decided that certain teeth should be removed.

A satisfactory and complete evaluation of the patient's physical condition is under such circumstances, hardly possible.

"An undernourished patient is a risk for any operation, and that applies quite as definitely to minor as to major surgery. Undernourishment may be present, of course, for reasons other than deficiencies of diet, but the most impressive of all cases... have been dietary deficiency cases."

The important factor in combating postoperative dental pain, Dr. Egan concludes, is general resistance, with diet having a direct bearing.

RUSSIAN TROOPS DRIVE ON MINSK

SHARP Pincer movements by the Red Army at the prize city of Minsk in White Russia are being carried out while Nazi troops march through the city of Helsinki following the agreement by the Finnish government to continue in the war on the side of the Germans. Twenty thousand Nazis are said to have been killed and 10,000 others to have surrendered in the liquidation of five already riddled German divisions in a pocket between Vitebsk and Orsha.

NAZI ROBOT BOMBS HIT ENGLAND ANEW

One Missile Wrecks Children's Hostel; Searchers Dig In Ruins

(By Associated Press) LONDON, June 30.—The Germans intensified their blind bombardment of southern England today with robot aerial torpedoes, killing several dozen persons.

The robots were flung across the channel at frequent intervals during the day. A children's hostel, a hotel, shops, homes and office buildings were hit.

Fifty or more men tore at the charred wreckage of the children's hostel with shovels and bare hands recovering small bodies one by one.

Broken baby carriages, rocking horses, books, shoes and shattered toys were scattered about the garden and grounds of the home. The children had been brought there last March after another hostel had been burned out by incendiary bombs.

Another bomb cut into a hotel annex roof causing several deaths. Another smashed small shops and a home, killing several. Six died in another incident. A hit on an office building killed several among passersby.

In one area where a bomb hit, a great column of smoke billied up and when it cleared, dead, injured and smashed vehicles littered the street. A postoffice, a number of buildings and a bus were hit elsewhere and there were casualties.

A naval announcement said destroyers and light coastal forces were keeping a close watch on the channel islands, where two German divisions were believed cut off. British warships are intercepting supply convoys whenever possible.

The islands have big guns capable of shooting up to 40,000 yards. They could shell the Cherbourg peninsula but could do no great damage since there would be no way for the Germans to observe the fire.

Ages of some 37,000 Germans taken prisoner by the Americans in the Cherbourg peninsula provide strong indication that Hitler may not long be able to continue throwing first-class reserves into his various fronts.

Associated Press War Correspondent Don Whitehead, with the American army, last night quoted a staff officer as saying, after seeing the long lines of prisoners, that five years of war apparently had wiped out the cream of German youth—those from 20 to 28, who normally would form the backbone of any great fighting force.

Most of the Germans taken by the Americans were less than 20 or more than 30 years old.

BOMBERS

U. S. raiders—presumably also operating from Italy—and Nazi fighters.

British-based American Ninth air force Thunderbolts topped off an active day yesterday, considering the weather, by attacking the Germans' reinforcement lines between Rouen and the Normandy battle front.

They also extended the campaign against railroad facilities to the area south of Orleans, with a blow at the Vierzon-Ville yards 30 miles further inland.

Fighters and fighter-bombers of the RAF's tactical air force, which yesterday hit a new peak of activity with 1,100 sorties (individual plane flights), attacked more railroad junctions and bridges behind the German lines.

The total aerial score for yesterday was 55 German planes shot down by 25 Allied planes lost, including 15 American heavy bombers.

TIMKEN CO. STRIKE LEAVES 9,000 IDLE

(By Associated Press)
CANTON, June 30.—Four divisions of Timken Roller Bearing Co. were virtually shut down today as 9,000 of the 10,000 employees walked out in protest of what union leaders termed "a complete breakdown in labor relations."

Company President William E. Umstatt reported to the Regional War Labor board in Cleveland that approximately 9,000 workers were engaged in the work stoppage. Spokesmen for Golden Lodge, local 1123, CIO-United Steelworkers of America, last night asserted furnaces were being emptied in the melt shop of the Canton Steel mill division, and that employees were "pulling heat" in the carburizing department of the Canton Bearing division. Union officials said Canton Steel employed 2,113, Canton Bearing 5,380, and Gambirius steel and bearing divisions, also closed, 1,267 and 1,213, respectively.

The Regional WLB revised an earlier back-to-work order to stress that unionists were to return "at once." The board previously warned that a grievance hearing scheduled for July 5 would not be held unless production were resumed before that date. WLB officials reported the men erroneously understood they had until July 4 to comply.

the pace President Roosevelt sets, if he is the Democratic nominee. If the President visits defense plants on inspection trips, as he did in the 1940 campaign, Dewey will feel free to do the same. If Mr. Roosevelt goes abroad to visit the troops or to confer with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin during the campaign, there may be a Republican demand for Dewey to fly the ocean, at least to see the fighting men.

Possibility that Mr. Roosevelt might invite the Republican nominee to go along for any international conference has not been overlooked in the Republican camp, either. Many thought Dewey could not refuse, might welcome, the opportunity.

Gov. Bricker Given A Hero's Welcome Upon Arrival Home

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 30.—Gov. John W. Bricker came home from the Republican national convention last night to the most tumultuous welcome of his long political career.

An old-fashioned torch-light parade and political rally greeted the GOP vice presidential nominee here and later virtually every resident of nearby Mount Sterling turned out for a celebration at his birthplace there.

Thousands lined this city's flared main thoroughfare and cheered as the handsome, white-haired candidate rode on the back of an open automobile through a storm of confetti.

During the rally in the statehouse square, Bricker promised to work unstintingly "to preserve this beloved land of ours, the finest God ever created, and to help her take her place of leadership among the nations of the world, and to help build peace and goodwill."

Bricker said he felt a "very serious sense of responsibility" in the forthcoming campaign.

The governor expressed gratitude to the homefolk for their support in the past and said he was counting on their aid in the future.

"Never have I needed your help and your prayers as they are needed now," he asserted.

He told former neighbors at Mount Sterling "It is an unselfish job I'm trying to do—that of preserving the two-party system in America."

At the governor's side during the demonstrations were his wife, Harriet, and their 13-year-old son, Jack. Mrs. Bricker practically was covered with flowers as bouquet after bouquet was heaped in her arms.

A woman told the governor's wife: "I'm sorry John didn't make the presidency."

"Yes," replied Mrs. Bricker, "but we're glad it worked out the way it did."

RED ARMY UNITS CLOSER TO MINSK

MOSCOW, June 30.—Red army units in force plunged today into the Berezina river northeast of Minsk, while engineers of two Soviet armies hurried pontoons into place for mass crossings of the last natural obstacle before the White Russian capital.

Field dispatches said the first units met stiff fire from strong German forces on the west bank, and from artillery positions west of the river, but there were no indications that the retreating Nazis would be able to make a stand here.

Although the fighting was sharp, the gateway to Minsk appeared open.

Great swarms of Stormovik Yaks and medium bombers kept up a round-the-clock aerial offensive against the withering Wehrmacht.

The Russians said 71 Nazi planes were downed in 24 hours.

The biggest crossings were headed by staffs of Gen. Ivan Cherniakov's third White Russian army and Gen. Ivan Bagramian's First Baltic army, all veterans of quick crossings under fire.

Southwest of Minsk the first White Russian army was moving rapidly up the valley toward Minsk, cracking an important outer defense line of the city.

These fighters, leaving the Berezina river far behind them, have opened a gateway down the Gomel-Minsk highway and railway with planes providing a covering such as seldom has been seen in this war.

HOLLYWOOD, June 30.—"The Kid" is home today—a kid no longer but a 29-year-old veteran of the Burma campaign. Flight Officer Jackie Coogan.

The screen's former child actor was the first to land when glider-borne forces dropped at night 130 miles behind Japanese lines in northern Burma. He later was awarded the Air medal.

Coogan said he will "visit my mother (Mrs. Arthur Bernstein) see some friends, have fun, and buy new uniforms—everything mildewed out there."

Coogan will report July 4 Troop Carrier command headquarters Stout field, Indianapolis, he said. He entered the service three years ago.

Radio Programs

The radio commentators, who themselves generally rate as diction experts, are saying that the Republican party goes into the new campaign with two voices having particular microphone qualifications. They refer to the presidential nominee, Thomas E. Dewey, and the representative from Connecticut, Clare Boothe Luce.

This was their consensus after listening to the broadcast delivery from the convention rostrum.

China Nips Demings 3-2 In Extra Inning; Sheens Top News

Russ Morrison Bangs Out Single To Tie Demings In Seventh; Errors Beat News

When the chips are down the China can come through—and they proved it yesterday at Centennial park for the fourth straight Class A softball game as they came from behind in the last inning to tie Demings and beat them 3-2 in the extra frame.

In the first game yesterday Sheens came out on top in a contest with the News, 5-2.

The China-Demings fray—which turned out to be one of the most hotly contested games of the season—went scoreless five innings until Demings loaded the bases in the sixth. Bill Rich, Deming roving short, came to bat and laid a slow roller down the first base line, scoring Brudery and McArthur with the two runs that seemed to put the game on ice.

However, the Potters came back in the seventh with two out, the bases loaded and Russ Morrison at the plate. Kenny Brudery, Deming pitcher, debated momentarily about passing Morrison but decided to pitch to him. The next ball was a low one and the China shortstop picked it out and drove it straight between first and second for a single, scoring Dale Ritchie and Munnau with the tying runs.

In the extra inning Demings failed to threaten, but the Potters scored after John Del Favero was safe on an error. Fred Reese was the next batter and when he landed safely on another misplay, a try was made at third base for Del Favero who scored the winning run when the ball got through Third Sackman Brunner.

In the other contest the News started off badly by allowing four Sheen runs to cross the plate in the first. Errors and a pair of hits garnered the four markers for the winners and the News was unable to recapture any serious threat in the game.

The News offered their only competition in the third inning when with the bases loaded and nobody out, Charles Malloy singled to score one marker and an error set up the other score. The threat was ended soon afterwards as Francis Lannoy retired the batters in order.

The win gives Sheens a sure bid for second place honors this round and puts the News in a tie for third

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
NEW YORK, June 30 — OVERSEAS SPORTS ROUNDUP — Fleet postoffice.

Francis E. Buckley, who last was heard of when he quarterbacked the All-Navy team in Bermuda's Liv boat football classic next January, sends word from the Central Pacific that the Seabees out there would like some football uniforms.

"The Seabee Athletic association is in its infancy, but in competition with other service teams has made an excellent record," Buckley writes. "Last week, the boxing team defeated the Army Air force; the track team placed third in an eleven-team A. A. U. meet, May 29th. Plans are under way to place a football team in competition this fall. The only drawback is the lack of uniforms. I'd appreciate any ideas you might give us in respect to schools that have abandoned football."

Dropped out and from what we saw last fall the Tigers had very little besides uniforms.

TWO AFRICA
Two letters recently received at the St. Louis Browns office from doughboys of an infantry outfit in North Africa—Perhaps indicating some association between the temperature there and that of Sportsman's park:

"Dear Gang: Go get 'em. This is the Brownies' year and how! We're so sure that you'll keep on hustling in there that we are going to hustle it up over here to get back in time to see you play and win the series. To perpetuate this, we have organized the following club: Browns Boosters club, Doughnut Division, North African theater." This bore 110 signatures, and 112 members of another company in the same division wrote: "Go get that pennant! This is to inform you that the undersigned GIs have formed another Brownie Overseas Boosters club, called the Tired Foot division. Our slogan in this club is: Berlin for us; World's series for the Browns."

BACK IN ENGLAND
Excerpts from a letter to Bob (Ohio State Journal) Hooley from Lieut. (JG) Phil Buckley, the Columbus pro football man, who was one of the first in the invasion: "We lost three of our original gang at Anzio. Ens. Jerry Donnell, one of our '40 bulls, was gone. The others, Rip Howe of Culver Stockton, and Aus Pirre, coach at Catholic university, still are 'missing. Three of our beginners remain operational. Big John Tripson of Detroit Lions, Anderson of Utah and myself. It's a proud lot, Bob, and whether athletics continue in my life or not, this has been the happiest and hardest team play with real men. We feel that perhaps it's just something we trained for through school and pro ball—and lived up to."

TRIBE ENCOURAGED BY REYNOLDS' SHOW
(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, June 30—Allie Reynolds' return to something resembling his 1943 form has raised the hopes of the Cleveland Indians that their pitching problems are about to be solved.

The husky Oklahoman, who topped the American league in strikeouts last year, was counted upon to carry a major share of the mound labors this season, but his ineffectiveness during the first two months of the campaign is one of the reasons the Indians are in last place.

Yesterday Reynolds turned in a three-hit shutout as the Tribe defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 6 to 0. This, it is a proud lot, Bob, and whether athletics continue in my life or not, this has been the happiest and hardest team play with real men. We feel that perhaps it's just something we trained for through school and pro ball—and lived up to."

Al Smith hurls for the Indians against Buck Newsom as the clubs meet in the final game of the series tonight.

Two or three years after the kapok tree starts to produce, it will yield about 600 pods, containing a total of about six pounds of fiber, every year.

RED SOX BELTER By Jack Cords

Mathewson Is Still Greatest Pitcher To His Old Battery Mate Bresnahan

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 30—Roger Bresnahan, who laid aside his big league catching mitt some 30 years ago, now has hit hat in the political ring—but his heart still is in baseball.

And the 64-year-old Irishman, who has seen baseball talent come and go for almost half a century, still believes his old battery mate, Christy Mathewson, was the greatest pitcher of them all.

Bresnahan, who gained fame as a great backstop for the New York Giants, later managed the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs, and then owned the Kansas City franchise for 10 years, is running for county commissioner in Toledo.

Now a brewing company representative, Bresnahan came back to the Polo grounds this week for a guest appearance at the War Bond show. As he donned his uniform, the aging Irishman said:

"Too bad Matty can't be here. He would have loved this. There was a great man."

Matty, the Greatest

"Matty was the greatest pitcher of all time. Walter Johnson, Cy Young, Lefty Grove, Carl Hubbell—they were good, very good, but none could touch Mathewson. There was only one Matty."

"Matty never had an equal, particularly in a pinch. He was an absolute master. Matty was not a fire ball pitcher, but he had a world of speed when he preferred to cut loose. Why, do you know he holds the season strikeout record in the National league? He fanned 267 in 1903. He struck out 16 in a nine-inning game in 1904, and his lifetime total is 2,505."

"His famous 'fade-away' no batter could hit. There never was another pitch like it, except Hubbell's screwball. But Hub was no Matty."

The most remarkable pitching performance he ever witnessed? "Matty again," the Duke of Tralee, Ireland, replied. "The Giants were in the thick of a pennant fight with Pittsburgh. In one of the late innings we were ahead 3-2 when a hit and a couple of errors put three Pirates on and none out."

"Tommy Leach, Fred Clarke and Kitty Bransfield, three great batters, were coming up. Matty whiffed Leach on three inside pitches. Clarke with three consecutive fade-aways, and Bransfield on three drop curves around the knees."

COALDALE, Pa.—Sergt. William Lusavage's high school class ring is more than a treasure of the good old days. It is also a souvenir of mysterious travel. Last while the serviceman was stationed in the South Pacific battle area, the ring was found in an Alaskan port. He returned it to Lusavage's parents here.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Jim's suit was baggy, his shirt dark with perspiration. He looked like a man who has been running at top speed in a blazing heat.

"Nora."

The pink in her cheeks deepened until her face seemed a mirror to flames.

Nobody moved. Nobody said a word.

Nora sprang toward him.

For an instant Ellery thought she meant to attack him in a spasm of fury. But then Queen saw that Nora was not angry; she was in a panic.

Nora darted by Jim and skinned up the stairs, and he ran after her. And silence....

Living statues, thought Ellery as he ran his fingers between his neck and his collar.

John F. and Hermie Wright were saying secretive things to each other with their eyes, as a man and woman learn to do who have lived together for years.

Pat kept glaring at the empty foyer, her chest rising and falling visibly; and Carter kept glaring at Pat.... Later there were overhead sounds: the opening of a bedroom door; a slither of feet; steps on stairs. Nora and Jim appeared in the foyer.

"We're going to be married," announced Nora.

"Right off," said Jim. He had a deep defiant voice. "Right off!" he repeated. "Understand?" He kept blinking at John F. and Hermie with a dogged, nervous bellicosity.

"Oh, Nora!" cried Pat, and she pounced and kissed her sister. Hermie was smiling the stiff grimace of a corpse. John F. mumbled, "I'll be dingled," and heaved out of his chair and went to his daughter and took her hand, and he took Jim's hand, too. Carter slipped his arm about Pat's waist.

Nora did not cry. She kept looking at her mother.

And then Hermie's petrification broke into little pieces and she ran to Nora, pushing Pat, John F. and Carter aside. She kissed Nora and kissed Jim, and said something in a hysterical tone that made no sense but seemed the right thing to say just the same.

Mr. Queen slipped out, feeling a little lonely.

Hermie planned the wedding like a general surrounded by maps and figures representing the opposing forces.

While Nora and Pat were in New York shopping for Nora's trousseau, Hermie held technical discussions with old Mr. Thomas, sexton of the family church; horticultural conferences with Andy Birobaty, the one-eyed florist in High Village; histrionic conversations with the Rev. Dr. Doolittle in rehearsals and choir-boy arrangements; talks with Mrs. Jones the caterer, with Mr. Grayce of the travel agency, and with John F. at the bank.

But these were Quartermaster's chores. The General Staff conversations were with the ladies of Wrightsville.

"It's just like a movie dear!" Hermie gushed over the telephone. "It was nothing more than a lovers' quarrel to begin with—Oh, yes, darling, I know what people are saying! Buy my Nora doesn't have to grab anybody. I don't suppose you recall last year how that handsome young Social Registerite from Bar Harbor.... Of course not! Why should we have a quiet wedding? My dear, they'll be married in church and.... Naturally as a bride.... Yes, to South America for six weeks.... Oh, John is taking Jim back into the bank.... Oh, no, dear, an executive officer's position.... Of course, darling! Do you think I'd marry my Nora off and not have you at the wedding?"

On Saturday, August 31, one week after Jim's return to Wrightsville, Jim and Nora were married by Dr. Doolittle. John F. gave the bride away, and Carter Bradford was Jim's best man.

After the ceremony, there was a lawn reception on the Wright grounds. Twenty waiters in mess jackets served. Emmeline DuPre, full-blown in an orange creation and crowned in a real rosebud tiara, skittered from group to group remarking how "well" Hermie Wright had carried off a "delicate" situation, and didn't Jim look interesting with those purple welts under his eyes? Do you suppose he's been drinking these three years? How romantic!

During the lawn reception Jim and Nora escaped by the service door. Ed Hotchkiss drove the bride and groom over to Slocum Township in time to catch the ex-stay overnight in New York and sail on Tuesday for Rio.

Mr. Queen spied the fleeing couple as they hurried into Ed's cab. Wet diamonds in her eyes, Nora clung to her husband's hand. Jim looked solemn and proud as he handed his wife into the cab gingerly.

Ellery also saw Frank Lloyd, who, returning from his "hunting trip" the day before the wedding, had sent a note to Hermie "regretting" that he couldn't attend the ceremony or reception as he had to go upstate that very evening to attend a convention. He wrote that Gladys Hemmingsworth, his Society reporter, would cover the wedding for the Record. "Please extend to Nora my very best wishes for her happiness. Yours, F. Lloyd."

But F. Lloyd, who should have been two hundred miles away, was skulking behind a weeping willow near the grass court behind the Wright house.

Mr. Queen experienced trepidation. What had Patty once said? "Frank took the whole thing to heart." And Frank Lloyd could be a dangerous man.... Ellery, behind a maple, actually picked up a rock as Jim and Nora ran out of the kitchen to get into the cab.

But the weeping willow wept quietly and, as soon as the taxi disappeared, F. Lloyd stamped off into the woods behind the house.
